Another boost in living costs reported

WASHINGTON (AP) - High- in the October index that the er prices for clothing, food and increase in prices of nonfood automobiles pushed consumer prices nine-tenths of a per cent higher in October, the Labor Department reported today.

The one-month increase in the Consumer Price Index was prices of nonfood items insmaller than the 1.2 per cent increase in September, but still was considerably higher than normal and showed that Americans still are paying the price crease since December a year of inflation in their purchases.

The over-all increase in consumer prices in the 12 months has been 12.2 per cent, the biggest 12-month increase since a 12.6 per cent price rise in 1947.

Americans in October were paying higher prices for new and used cars, mortgage interest costs, clothing, sugar, cereal and bakery products.

These were offset partially by declines in prices for meat and gasoline.

Gasoline prices were down 2.7 per cent during the month and the average cost per gallon was 53 cents for regular and 57 cents for premium, the department said.

Prices of meat, poultry and fish were reported down one per cent during October following two months of large increases. The declines for beef, especially, were larger than

Boosters Club seeks action on renovation of DHS athletic field

By LENNY INGRASSIA Members of the Dixon High School Boosters Club made it clear to the Dixon School Board Wednesday that athletic facilities at the high school are at a critical state.

Led by their spokesman, Brad Nusbaum, the group called for a total facelifting of the athletic field, tack, bleachers and lighting.

Commenting on the size of the group attending, Board President James Dixon said "I haven't seen this many people here since we discussed implementation of sex education in our schools.

Nusbaum said the Boosters Club is highly concerned and willing to take the first step toward renovations. "We'd like to work to-gether with you," Nusbaum told the sevenmember board, "we offer our time, talent and

He added: "We're not looking for an over-night answer. It's going to take time but we want to get started.

Dixon asked the group what priorities had been established, at which time Lou Simon expounded, "We passed the priority stage 10 years ago . . . we can't meet IHSA regulations on our track," he said, in urging the board to tackle the complete job and not take it by Simon added that a great deal of volunteer help would come forth if the board purchased the materials for renovation.

Nusbaum said the track lanes are deplorable, going from three lanes to two and down to one lane. The stadium lighting was termed "antique," and the bleachers ready to crum-

The House voted 124-5 Wednesday to override Gov. Daniel Walker's veto action reducing a pay increase approved earlier by the General Assembly. The bill was sent to the Senate

The elusive goal

WASHINGTON (LENS)— The vast study of America's energy options, known as Project Independence Blueprint, was due to be delivered last week to the Energy Resources Council. It is the council. headed by Rogers Morton, the secretary of the Interior, which will make recommendations for action to President Ford.

Conceivably the final version which goes to Morton may differ in some respects from the draft which the press has got hold of, but the differences are not expected to be

Blueprint is a misleading word. The report, which leaned heavily on models and computers, provides instead of policies a tool which has not existed before and should prove valuable in reaching decisions, even if some of its assumptions prove

It developed detailed supply and demand curves not only for the country as a whole, but for regions and for all sources of energy; it took into account things like the length of time it takes to drill an oil well and the availability of skilled labor, equipment and transport.

Coordination of the 21 inter-agency task forces left a good deal to be desired and there are some inconsistencies. But time was short and almost the least of the problems was that on one occasion the computer was struck by lightning. Unfortunately Morton's view is that the whole affair is just "a lot of fancy footwork with computers."

The study was concerned with seeing how the United States could meet its demand for energy and reduce its vulnerability to another oil embargo; the five-month embargo in 1973-74 cut gross national product by over $10 billion and a year-long embargo in 1985 might cut GNP by

Coal, the report says, can never replace oil; it is too dirty to burn, too hard to mine and unsuitable for many purposes. So President Nixon's idea that America could do without oil imports altogether is dismissed as quite unrealistic. Even if costs were disregarded and domestic oil and gas reserves were exploited ruthlessly they would last only until 1990, while the environmental and human costs would be unaccept-

The world price of oil is a central factor in the calculations. The study suggests that $7 a barrel is the likeliest level by 1985, but its projections have also been worked out on the basis of $11, the present price, which is three or four times the pre-embargo

In the view of the authors the present high price is likely to cut the growth in demand for energy from the 4-5 per cent which characterized the 1960s to 2.9 per cent a year. At $7 a barrel the growth rate is put at 3.1 per cent a year.

Some 250 pages of the 1,000-page report are devoted to restraining the demand for energy-by requiring better mileage from cars, controlling lighting, encouraging better insulation of houses and so on, though no consideration is given to taxing gasoline heavily.

This approach to shortage would be much the best for the environment and would pay dividends when America's oil and gas production turns down.

But the report parts company with the Ford Foundation's recent study; it does not consider that conservation alone will enable the United States to thumb its nose at the Arabs. The projections shown in the chart reflect the computer's verdict: positive governmental efforts to increase domestic production are Even such a program could not succeed if the world price of oil fell below $6.50 a barrel (the cost of producing oil from the outer continental shelf and the naval reserve in Alaska). A combination of conservation of energy and government encouragement of production would yield the best results of all. But this is a decision for politicians, not comput-

For the prriod up to 1985 very little is expected from the exotic sources of energy such as solar heat, geothermal energy and synthetic fuels, but the authors consider that they will be vital after 1990 when domestic oil and gas reserves may be nearing exhaustion. So research into them should be continued.

According to press stories, shale oil also nearly found itself put on the research shelf-a private study suggested that it would take so much energy to get the oil out of the shale that the operation would be pointless-but out of deference to the department of the interior, which is bullish on shale, no trace of such doubts was included in the report.

DHS Varsity Cheerleaders

To the Editor:

Upon its highly successful Band-Aid Day on June 8, the Music Booster Club reached a total of approximately $4,000 in its treasury, after having worked only seven months to attain this figure. It had organized on Oct. 30 of 1973, and began its money-raising activities shortly thereaf-

The Booster Club's main goal, as expressed from the beginning, was to raise enough money to purchase new band uniforms for both the grade and high schools. Both school boards were aware of this, and the club sought the cooperation of the school boards, often with much difficulty. From its conception, the booster club found willingness to cooperate with the grade school board, but much resistance was met from the high school board. Both boards often remarked that band uniforms were badly needed.

Many activities were scheduled during the seven months of diligent work, climaxed by its Band-Aid Day on June 8, when nearly $2,000 profit was made during that single day. When the figure of $4,000 was reached by the club, it was decided that they would like to present the high school with new uniforms, and buy the grade school uniforms later. Two major reasons were cited: the price of uniforms was rising each month, and money could be saved by purchasing some at a lower cost. Also if the community would see the high school in their new uniforms. they could see tangible evidence of what they were working for, especially since the high school band would be seen much more often than the grade school. The grade school board agreed that this was a good

The Ohio High School Board was formally asked if they would accept a new uniform donated by the Booster Club. After two months' deliberation by the board, they voted at the third monthly board meeting to refuse to accept new uniforms donated by the booster club.

Because of the reluctance of the high school board to vote either positively or negatively, in the meantime the grade school board was asked if they would accept new uniforms. They voted definitely that they would accept a new uniform, but they decided they wanted to let the high school have its chance to accept them, since the latter had tabled the matter with no definite decision. At the second high school board meeting, upon tabling the decision again, the booster club officially withdrew its offer to present the high school with the gift.

Definite plans were therefore begun to select a uniform expressly for the grade school. A band uniform commission had previusly been formed and had selected a uniform for the high school—a tuxedo style with an overlay. Now that the offer had been withdrawn from the high school, the commission met again and designed a different uniform for the grade school. When the uniform was presented to the grade school board at the October Board meeting, the board unanimously voted to accept the gift. A check for $4,087.33 was presented to the grade school board for the purchase of 39 uniforms, an extra blazer, and 47 garment bags.

Therefore, since the purpose for its existence had been satisfied, the grade school has their uniforms on order and the high school has decided it doesn't want the gift, the Booster Club has dissolved and is no longer in existence.

The Ohio Music Booster Club wishes to express our thanks to those people who contributed so generously of their time and talent, and to those businesses and individuals who made cash donations, especially to the First State Bank of Van Orin with a check of $150.

Watch for the Ohio Grade School in their new band uniforms. We expect them to be deliverd to us no later than February 15.

When Lyndon B. Johnson swamped Barry Goldwater in 1964. it was termed a mandate by LBJ and the Democrats.

When Richard M. Nixon swarmed over George McGovern in 1972, it was termed a mandate by Nixon and the Republicans

On Nov. 5, Republican candidates were felled like bowling pins, in spite of President Ford's last minute barnstorming campaigning to plead with voters not to elect a veto-proof Congress.

The results were read by partyline Democrats as a mandate for implementing their party's platform.

The truth is, in 1964, voters feared Goldwater would escalate the Vietnam war and were apprehensive what he might do to dismantle the Social Security system, so, in droves, they voted for LBJ.

It was not a mandate for Johnson and the Democrats, it was a rejection of Goldwater.

Johnson, following his election, carried out the Vietnam policies advocated by Goldwater which had frightened the populace.

When Nixon rolled over McGovern with a near-record margin, it was not a mandate for RMN, who was never a popular candidate, but was a rejection of the extreme positions advanced by McGovern.

Nixon's lack of general popularity is shown by the fact it was the first election since 1848 that a victorious President did not carry with him at least one house of Congress.

The November vote is not a mandate to Democrats, but it is a demonstration of revulsion about Watergate and exasperation concerning

The tragic aspect of so-called mandates is they result from a negative reaction by voters rather than being a positive affirmation.

Another point about mandates is they occur only when citizens cross over from their regular party affiliation when voting.

Then the mandate is not given by those embracing the winning political party, it is caused by the failure of the other party to field a candidate which unifies its adherents.

Voting citizens demonstrate strange behavior. A recent Gallup poll reveals 38 per cent of Americans consider themselves to be conservatives as opposed to 26 per cent who call themselves liberals.

The percentage of conservatives is the highest since 1936, yet on Nov. 5, 38 per cent of the U.S. voting-age population went to the polls and cast ballots overwhelmingly for Democratic candidates who were generally more liberal than their Republican opponents. If the 38 per cent of the population who consider themselves conservative had so voted on Nov. 5, they couldhave dictated the outcome of

In 1972, Nixon polled 60.6 per cent of the popular vote which came from 56 per cent of the U.S. voting-age population, yet voting registrations indicate Democrats outnumber Republicans two to one.

All of this means, for one thing, people tend to vote for candidates, not for parties or whether they are liberal or conservative candidates.

This lays down a mandate to political parties to field candidates who can capture the confidence and imagination of the American populace.

> Depression worse than '30s is seen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)-America is approaching a depression that could make the slump of the 1930s "seem like a tea party," says economist Eliot Janeway. "Before this is over, no American is going to live high on the hog," he told a Georgia State University audience Tuesday. The United States is in a race against time to forestall a depression, said Janeway, author of numerous books on economics.

"We have no friends," he said. "Europeans and the Japanese are lined up foursquare with the oil countries. Do not regard Israel as our friend, but respect them for looking out for themselves—and question us for not looking after ourselves."

Janeway also said he did not think President Ford should have left the country during an economic crisis.

He said there is no way to escape a depression if the Middle East countries maintain the high price of oil. The United States should demand a 50 per cent cut in oil prices, he said.

Business and professional men of Dixon, Freeport, and intervening cities and villages will join in a celebration of Route 26 from the city to Freeport. The celebration is being sponsored by the Chambers of Commerce of Dixon and Freeport as well as other organizations of businessmen in the two cities and the smaller towns on the newly paved route.

YOUTH APPRECIATION IS TEAMWORK

By DON OAKLEY A familiar and effective way of bringing home the nation's economic situation is to compare the value of the dollar with what it was in some other, presumably more prosperous, year.

According to one recent analysis, for example, in the lifetime of half of all Americans—those born since 1946—the value of the dollar has shrunk by 60 cents. At this rate, the "1946 dollar" will be worth only 16 cents in another 28 years.

To put it another way, to have the same purchasing power as today's "40-cent dollar," a person making $7,200 today would have to earn $18,-000 in the year 2002. A $30 pair of shoes will cost $75. The average family's weekly food budget will rise from $62 to $152, and so on.

It could happen sooner than 28 years if the present rate of inflation were to continue unchecked. The dollar would look even more minuscule, however, if we were to compare it with its 1939 counterpart, as we used to do back when inflation was a minor, and some thought a necessary and welcome, factor in the economy.

But how many people would like to return to 1939? For all the ravages of inflation, most Americans are far better off than they were in 1939, or 1946 for that matter, the "40-cent dollar" notwithstanding.

This is not to minimize inflation. which has grown to such dimensions that, as President Ford has warned. it threatens the future of all of us.It is merely to point out the fallacy of using the shrinking dollar as the only yardstick to measure where we have been and where we seem to be going. A television set costs more than it did 10 or 20 years ago. But it's a better and more reliable set. Thirty years ago there was no television industry at all, which has given employment to tens of thousands. For the price of three or four modern key-start, self-propelled lawnmowers, you could have bought an automobile in 1939. But many people didn't have a yard to cut back then, if they had a pushmower, much less a house on that yard filled with all kinds of appliances. Much of what we consider necessities today were undreamed of luxuries not many years ago.

Again, this is not to minimize the threat of inflation. But there is no going back to the 1939 dollar or the 1946 dollar or even to the 1973 dollar.

What is important is that we take the steps needed to maintain and safeguard the nation's basic economic strength so that the 1975 dollar or the 1990 dollar or the 2002 dollar, whatever they may be "worth" in terms of some other year, continue to enable more and more Americans to afford the good things of life.

By PAUL TREUTHARDT Associated Press Writer

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) Palestine or Jordan? More than a million Palestinians living on the east side of the Jordan River face this agonizing choice since King Hussein renounced Jordan's claim to the Israeli-occupied West Bank

Since the Arab summit conference in Rabat last month recognized the Palestine Liberation Organization as the government of a future Palestinian state on the West Bank, Hussein has made clear that the Palestinians living in Jordan will sooner or later have to pledge renewed allegiance to him or take Palestinian status and live in Jordan as foreign

This choice dominates discussion among the Palestinians. whether they live in Amman's crowded bazaar, in elegant homes on the hills overlooking the capital, or in the dusty alleys of refugee camps whipped by the first winter winds.

The gut reaction is to want to assert their Palestinian personality, to feed the dream of returning home, to be citizens of their own country. But realism speaks otherwise.

"I have a thriving business, a nice home, my children were born in Amman. I have been here 26 years," said a building contractor. "This is my home. One of my daughters is married to an East Jordanian. Give Aviv? Ridiculous, even if anyone considers that will be Palestine in my lifetime."

Said another: "You must remember there are the '48 people, who come from pre-1967 Israel, and the '67 people, refugees since the Israelis occupied the West Bank in 1967. I am from Jenin. It's more likely I may have a state to go to. But then why? I served in the Jordanian army; I have my pension, my business, my family was the setting for the recent marriage of Miss Karen Ann Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Meyer to Richard Van Kirk Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Kirk

The Rev. James Molloy, pastor of the church, officiated, and nuptial music was provided by Miss Marilyn Shaeffer, vocalist, and Crawford Thomas, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white silk organza trimmed with Venetian lace entwined with satin ribbon. The gown's circular skirt was topped by a lace empire bodice fashioned with a square neckline, a bouffant back-bow and shepherdess sleeves with lace cuffs. The gown was complemented by a mantilla of illusion edged with lace, which was attached to an open-crown pillbox headpiece of maline.

Mrs. Alan Magnafici attended the bride as maid of honor, and acting as bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Miss Cheryl Meyer, and Miss Terry Van Kirk, sister of the bridegroom.

Miss Lisa Ann Meyer participated in the ceremony as flower girl, and the ringbearer Lumber, Jimmy Waukegan.

Rick Milano was the bridegroom's best man; serving as groomsmen were James Van Kirk and Rodney Reeder, and wedding guests were ushered by Jerry Meyer, brother of the bride, and the bridegroom's brother, Scott Van Kirk.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the VFW Club when a tiered wedding cake was served by the bride's godmother, Mrs. Elmer Brandl, Manitowoc, Wis. Miss Julie Meyer, sister of the bride, presided at the coffee service, and punch was poured by Miss Sandra Meyer, also a sister of the bride; Miss Terry Van Oosten and Miss Terry Tieken. Limited edition plates

By JEAN BARNES

You will never get rich collecting "limited editions" of anything. Unless you are a shrewd buyer, you could lose a

Skeptics of this may point to a blue Christmas plate produced in 1895 by Bing & Grondahl which sold for about $5. That plate is worth more than $2,000

More recently, the Lalique crystal Christmas plate which sold for $25 in 1965 reached a peak of $2,500 and has a current market value of about $1,000. But, for every one of these 'successes'' there are literally hundreds of thousands begging for buyers.

What makes the difference? We asked George Watts, president of George Watts & Son Inc., Milwaukee, Wisc. The firm has dealt in fine china, crystal and silver for 103 years. Watts, grandson of the founder, is an expert in valuable collector's items.

He said, "If you collect anything artistic simply as a speculation that it might go up in value, then you're collecting for the wrong reason."

He explained that the current popularity of collecting contemporary art objects has been due partly to the diminishing availability of true antiques. "Human beings seem to have a basic urge to collect something of intrinsic, tangible value and they're fulfilling this urge by acquiring limited edition objects with built-in rarity," he said.

"If scarcity is the only reason you buy something - not because its beauty appeals to you - then you are speculating . if the profit fails to materialize you suffer a loss or are stuck with a useless object that gives no pleasure" The resale market for plates is "very thin," prices can fluctuate wildly and an imprudent speculator can suffer heavy losses, he explained.

Another major problem for the collector is the exploitation of the plate business by greedy producers and distributors and misrepresentation by dishonest advertisers.

'A lot of plates have come on the market that range from mediocre to downright junk. Some so-called limited editions are limited only by the number of copies that can be foisted on unsuspecting buyers."

Marriage vows are exchanged

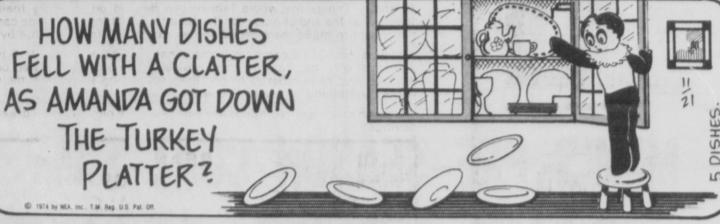

Miss Olive Cotta, Dixon, and Wilbur L. Pickering, Oregon, exchanged marriage vows Sunday in the chapel of the First United Methodist Church,

The wedding was performed by Dr. Robert W. Schumm, pastor of the church, and attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Storm, Rock-ford; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cotta, Annapolis, Md., and Mrs.

The former Miss Cotta taught home economics at Dixon High School for a number of years before her retirement, and Mr. Pickering formerly served as superintendent of schools in Ogle County. Both are graduates of DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.

Following their return from a trip to Portland, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Pickering will be residing at 515 N. Sixth St., Oregon.

by Ann Landers

Tell her, "Yes. And it may be sooner than you think. Your time off will come when your husband dies." I know, because it happened to me.

My wonderful man dropped dead of a heart attack three weeks after he retired. His golf clubs and fishing gear are stacked neatly in the back closet. I will dispose of them soon. I can't bear to have them around. I stand by the stove and eat.

Sitting alone at the table is more than I can bear. My housework, laundry and cooking take no time at all. It's amazing that the difference between one and two can seem like 50. I've got plenty of leisure time now but believe me, I hate . I'd give anything to be "too busy" again.

So, think, women, before you complain.—I Know

Dear Friend: I'm sure your letter will hit mighty close to home for many of my readers. Thank you for writing it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have the answer for all the decent, single fellows out there who are tired of meeting barracudas. I'm 27, considered intelligent, and am fairly attractive. What's more I'd like very much to meet a fine man, but I am not about to go "looking" for him.

Ann Landers is right when she says, "What you pick up in a bar is there to be picked up.' So-where can you find me? I'm in the park watching my children. On weekends I'm at the zoo, or at the circus, or hiking, or in the bleachers, yelling my head off with my kids. On Sunday morning, I'm in church. At night, I'm at home. So, please don't look for me in the bars because I won't be there.-Cris From Conn.

Dear Cris: I was especially pleased to receive your letter because I've been thoroughly

Leftoversan answer to inflation By TOM HOGE

Most of our iceboxes have an assortment of remnants from recent meals that we dutifully keep for a few days, then throw out or give to the neighbor's

In these days of rocketing food costs, when everyone is casting about for some way to pare expenses, one good way is to try to create attractive meals from leftovers.

It doesn't take much imagination to make a hash from yesterday's roast, but did you ever think of saving that coffee that is growing cold on your breakfast table? You'd be surprised how delicious it can be as a flavor for custard or a cream pie.

And how about that cup of gravy aging on the back of the shelf? Don't wait till it gets a coating of mold and has to be thrown out. Add a little tomato sauce, a couple of stalks of diced celery and a chopped onion. With a little judicious seasoning you have a fine spaghetti

I know one couple who even save scrambled eggs and add them to a thick soup, like navy bean. Gives it a real lift, they Stale bread is used of course, to stuff a bird and it will make that meat loaf go further. And don't forget those tasty bread and raisin puddings laced with custard.

Here is a recipe for Indian curry that I have found easy to make, economical and a treat to eat

- 2 tablespoons butter 11/2 pounds cooked lamb cubed
- 1 cup chopped onion 1 cup chopped apple
- 3 tablespoons flour 1 tablespoon curry powder
- (can be doubled if desired) 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 cups beef bouillon 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic crushed
- 1-3rd cup seedless raisins
- 1/4 cup chutney 1/4 cup chopped almonds

Simmer lamb, onion and think of for a dame who freapple in butter over medium heat about 5 minutes stirring some strange man will notice constantly. Add flour, curry powder and salt; mix well. Take time to pay!

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, announced Tuesday that he wants to get the bill to the House for action Dec. 4 and 5. After the committee's latest decisions on a slimmed-down package of basic tax changes, Mills pressed the panel's staff to produce its final draft of the bill in time for a formal committee vote later this week.

The legislation would face House tests from those who want to hit the petroleum industry harder and from oilstate forces opposed to any major oil tax revisions. The measure also faces a possible Senate filibuster during the dying days of this post-election session.

The House committee itself remained sharply torn over the oil provisions and finally voted 13-12 for an eventual end to the depletion allowance and for creating a new tax on the petroleum industry's so-called windfall profits.

The bill would cut 1974 taxes, which would be due next April, for many average Americans by boosting the maximum standard deduction to 16 per cent of adjusted gross income or a top of $2,300, and by hiking the minimum standard deduction for low-income people to $1,600 for singles and $1,900 for

The maximum standard deduction currently is 15 per cent of adjusted gross income with a top of $2,000, while there presently is a minimum standard deduction of $1,300 for singles and a matching amount for couples The oil depletion allowance has been a chief target of oil industry critics who claim it is especially unnecessary at a time of higher oil prices. The allowance saves petroleum producers between $2 billion and $3 billion a year in federal

Slow payers increase during economic pinch

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Businessmen long ago found that one way of surviving lean times is to use somebody's else's money, mainly that of a supplier. Just delay the payment a month or so and you benefit from an interest-free loan.

Some of the best names in American industry have become slow payers when pinched. Some people claim Uncle Sam does the same thing. And based on relatively high delinquency figures on loans, individuals are aware of the practice.

The art or science of conserving and using money wisely during a combined inflation-recession-tight money period is far more complex than using other people's funds, however, as is indicated by an advisory to clients this month by Coopers & Lybrand, an accounting

The firm lists three goals that cash-conscious companies should seek these days: acceleration of cash receipts, the accumulation and wise investment of cash for growth and yield, and a delay in cash payouts. To accelerate cash receipts it suggested to clients that most businesses can benefit from the use of automatic transfer accounts, bank wire systems and electronic transfer arrangements to speed transactions.

In addition, it advised: -Review the need of cashiers at various office and plant

-Tighten due dates for all sales, and strengthen credit col-

As for obtaining cash and keeping it invested while still available for sudden, needs, the accounting firm suggested:

-Invest short-term cash in money market institutions that permit unrestricted investment and withdrawal.

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB- You mentioned in your column that fatty accumulations in the arteries are reversible. Could you please tell me how this is possi-

DEAR READER— The fatty particles in the bloodstream with cholesterol literally move through the artery wall. They stick in the wall and cause the deposits. Part or all of the deposits will be removed, in many cases, if the amount of fatty particles and cholesterol in the bloodstream is sufficiently low.

To lower the fatty-cholesterol particles in the blood you need to be on a diet that does not contain excess calories and either prevents or eliminates obesity. The diet should be low in fat, low in saturated fat, and low in cholesterol

The reversibility of fatty deposits in the arteries has been demonstrated in animals under strict experimental control, The monkey was used for one of the best experiments because he is more like the human. The monkeys developed fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries when they were on a rich diet, and the fatty deposits were not present after monkeys were put back on a less rich monkey diet.

The same thing has been demonstrated in people. The problems associated with fattycholesterol deposits in the arteries, specifically heart disease, decreased or almost disappeared from European populations of WW II. There are innumerable studies showing this relationship.

For more information about cholesterol, triglycerides, and blood fats as related to artery and heart disease, write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on cholesterol. Send 50 cents to cover

DEAR DR. LAMB- I've had this problem for a while, so I'm telling you about it.

Since school started in 1973 I've been chewing more than a pack of gum a day and each time I chew a piece I'm lucky if it lasts more than 10 minutes.

My problem is I have this habit of swallowing my gum, sometimes bit by bit and sometimes the whole piece at once. It isn't accidental-it's just a hab-

DEAR READER- If swallowing gum is the worst thing you ever swallow, you will be lucky indeed.

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH, Thurs.,

No, it will not take seven years to digest. It will not harm you-even though I must admit that I don't really think it is a good idea.

All undigested material passes through the digestive system and is usually eliminated in 48 hours.

I'm more concerned about the effects of constant gum chewing on your teeth. You might ask your dentist what he thinks about it.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE that $25,000 position? CASE C-604: Clark B., aged 31, was one of my psychology students at Northwestern University. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I saw an ad in the Chicago TRI-BUNE for a sales executive, at a salary of $25,000 per year. "So I wrote a letter of application and was soon called into the office for an interview.

"The employer said he had received many replies to his ad, but had narrowed the number down to just two, which included a graduate student at the University of Chicago and want the job, if possible?" Psychology Applied So I told Clark to be very respectful and courteous, but NOT to argue with her! Remember, there is a time and a place for all things, but when your prospective boss firmly believes in a system for picking employees, even if his system is unscientific, that's not the time to quibble or de-Well, the two applicants went to see this character analyst.

The graduate student in psychology from the U. of Chicago was examined first. He held an M.A. degree and began to argue with the woman as to the folly of her phony system of character analysis. The debate grew rather heated.

My student, however, was courteous and cooperated by letting her measure his facial features and also feel all the bumps and depressions in his

Associated Press Writer BOSTON (AP) - Is it possible that some crimes may be so heavily publicized that no defendant can get a fair trial? Two prominent lawyers say

Is the case of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., such a case?

They say no. "I think Calley got as fair a trial as anybody gets for committing a crime of that kind and being court-martialed." said Harvard Law Prof. Alan Dershowitz, a noted civil liber-

"The jury reacted against publicity," said criminal attorney F. Lee Bailey of Boston.

Bailey and Dershowitz commented on Calley's case and several others like it after being asked for their views on the question of a fair trial in cases that get extensive, nationwide news coverage. Also asked to comment on the topic was Robert Meserve, a Boston lawyer and former president of the American Bar Association.

The three said discussion of prejudicial publicity inevitably comes down to what jurors think, and nobody knows much about that. Are jurors honest about their prejudices when examined before selection? If not confined, do they obey the judge's instructions not to read newspapers or listen to radio and television news about their

Bailey won a new trial, and eventual acquittal, for Dr. Sam Sheppard, accused of murdering his wife, on the grounds the celebrated 1954 trial in Cleveland had been a circus, poisoned by local press clamor against the defendant. Bailey himself was censured by the Massachusetts Supreme Court in 1972 for, umong other things, out-of-court statements in a New Jersey case.

Recalling the Sheppard case, Bailey said: "In the retrial the first jurors, if we'd had them. would have voted to convict

"In my own experience, if a juror disregards the judge's instructions - in a case where the jury is not locked up - and reads about the trial, the other jurors turn on him and say: You're going beyond the rules.'

Meserve thought the empaneling of the Watergate cov- fense erup jury as well as the jury in mer U.S. Atty. Gen. Dershowitz says he is sure that, human nature being what it is, some jurors disregard judges' instructions. "I don't think you can completely count on it being an airtight system. There are many problems with the jury system, and it's such an important system I wouldn't want to tamper with it.'

"I'm not happy seeing Richard Nixon's gang being tried by blacks and liberals in the District of Columbia," said Der-

He thought it would have been "a lot fairer" to have moved the trial to "a district of Maryland where it (the 1972 election) was very close, and where you had a mixture of whites and blacks.

A majority of the Watergate coverup jury is black.

"I would have moved the trial to another city not so fired up," said Bailey.

Moving a trial is one way to assure a fair trial, as Bailey notes in summing up a judge's

"Have a thorough voir dire examination to get rid of those jurors who are prejudiced. Second, move or delay the trial. Third, try the case — and if you can assign unfairness, reverse the conviction and try it again or dismiss it, as in the Bobby Seale case in Connecticut.

Hanrahan to run for mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — Former State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, whose once promising political career took a downhill turn after his involvement in a Black Panther raid, announced today he is a candidate for mayor of Chicago.

Hanrahan, who lost his bid for reelection to the Cook County state's attorney's post in 1971, also was defeated Nov. 5 in a bid for Congress in the Illinois 6th District.

He was charged with obstruction of justice after the December 1969 raid in which two Black Panther party members were killed but he later was acquitted.

Hanrahan, a former U.S. attorney for northern Illinois, once was thought to be a probable successor to Mayor Richard J. Daley but he split with Daley after the Democratic party regulars refused to reslate him for the state's attorney's post in 1971.

He is the seventh person entered in the mayoral primary race next February.

Daley, 72, who suffered a mild stroke in May, has not announced whether he will seek a sixth four-year term. Hanrahan, who ran as an independent in his ill-fated state's attorney's race, said he will be on the Democratic primary ballot in February "regardless of who else runs for this office."

In a reference to Daley's possible candidacy, Hanrahan conceded his campaign will be more difficult "if there are certain others who choose to run."

Hanrahan said, "We should be ashamed..." of skyscrapers and expressways built at the expense of decaying neighborhoods, rising street crime and poor schools, but Hanrahan refused to blame Daley by name and said he seeks the support of the entire Democratic organ-

Ford turns tourist to see Kyoto sights

KYOTO, Japan (AP) - Tak- in World War II ing a break from official business, President Ford turned tourist today in Japan's former capital and ancient cultural center, visiting shrines and temples and dining with two teen-age apprentice geishas in attendance Hundreds of leftist demonstrators opposed to the President's visit to Japan and to the government of Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka marched in Kyoto's streets into the night. But Ford got only fleeting glimpses of a few of them, and they were grinning despite their raised, clenched fists.

All in all, it was a relaxed, pleasant day for the American chief executive.

The President visited the old imperial palace where Emperor Hirohito was enthroned in 1928, the 371-year-old Nijo Castle and the lakeside Temple of the Golden Pavilion covered in 22-carat gold foil.

The weather was chilly and there were intermittent showers, but he wore neither a hat nor a topcoat.

Ford was serenaded at the Nijo Castle by women playing 16th century instruments which they picked like a zither. He tried his hand at it, but the noise he produced was not exactly musical.

The President told newsmen he thought his visit to Japan was "going wonderfully. It couldn't be better, substantive-ly and otherwise. The President said he was enjoying learning something about the history and culture of "Its simplicity inspires one to make the most of what you have," he commented.

A Japanese meal — the first of the President's visit - was arranged at a local restaurant for his last night in Japan. Geishas were hired to add color and entertainment.

Local officials said 34 organizations applied for permits to hold a demonstration protesting Ford's visit, and 35,000 to 50,000 people might turn out. But the demonstrations were to be held in the late afternoon at a time when the President was to be in his hotel two miles away, and large numbers of police were on duty to insure that he was not disturbed.

There have been no other demonstrations since Ford's arrival in Japan Monday, when 2,000 leftists held a rally two miles from the airport and 400 of them clashed with the police.

Today South Korean riot police entered the U.S. Embassy compound in Seoul and dragged off more than 20 Korean women who were demonstrating for the release of relatives imprisoned for antigovernment activities.

A spokesman for Ambassador Richard Sneider protested to the police and asked that the women be released immediately. Later the Embassy said in a statement that the police entered the compound without the Embassy's permission, and Korean officials had expressed regret and informed the Embassy all the women had been re-

DHS concert for Luther College Band

The internationally known Luther College Concert Band will appear in Dixon High School's Lancaster Gymnasium Friday. The concert, under the direction of Frederick Nyline, will begin at 8 p.m.

One of the foremost musical touring college groups in the country, the Luther College Band, from Decorah, Iowa, has been acclaimed from coast to coast and several European cities. The 1974 Fall concert tour has taken the band to Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. The concert in Dixon will be the only Illinois appearance during

The Dixon High School Dukes Concert Band is sponsoring the event. Local arrangements include an evening meal, overnight lodging, and breakfast on Saturday morning. Robert L. L'Heureux, DHS band director, realizes that this type of arrangement does create extra planning, but stated: 'We have noted in past engagements, with similar arrangements for meals and lodging, that we became so personally involved with people- performing musicians—that the total effort was tremendously rewarding.

'It is exciting to meet these fine college musicians, and then to observe them during the concert- after having visited with them during our evening meal- it adds a personal touch that would otherwise be missing."

Tickets will be sold only at the door the night of the concert. Adults will be admitted for $1.50 and students for $1. Area high school students, and students from Sauk Valley College, will be admitted for $1 with an ID card. A special area of the gymnasium is being reserved for all at-tending alumni of Luther College. If you are a Luther alumni, notify an usher upon arrival.

Federal involvement in business blamed by Romney

The nation's economic problems demand tough decisions from government leaders. Romney said Wednesday, but the current atmosphere of concentrated power in the hands of business and labor makes it doubtful that such decisions will be made.

Amnesty plan has troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford's amnesty program faces problems finding enough public service jobs at its half-way point for Vietnam-era deserters and draft evaders to fulfill their part of the bargain.

Government officials also say that response to the amnesty offer from evaders and deserters continues to run behind expectations but they say the holiday spirit may inspire many holdouts to sign up before the plan expires Jan. 31.

A person who joins the amnesty program agrees to spend two years or less working in public service jobs, such as hospital orderlies.

However, these jobs are available for those awaiting job assignments in only about twothirds of the states, Selective Service officials say. Part of this problem is attributed to foot-dragging by some state draft officials, who are being urged by Draft Director Byron V. Pepitone and his top aides to search vigorously for jobs.

There are enough extra jobs in some states so that where the shortage is real "we'll have to transfer some people across state lines, although we'd prefer not to," said Deputy Draft Director John D. Dewhurst. "And some will get jobs they don't like."

At the extremes, New York City has no jobs listed for 79 awaiting jobs but Massachusetts has 295 jobs for 16 awaiting assignment.

There are a total of 1,331 jobs available for 1,352 enrolled at last count

A man is given a chance to get a job on his own before draft officials try to find one for him.

Selective Service, the U.S. attorneys and the military are working together to make it possible for some to overcome hardships by letting them take their public service compensatory jobs on a moonlighting basis.

Pepitone, Dewhurst and John W. Barber, who is managing the rehabilitation service job program from national draft headquarters, all agreed in interviews that the program announced by Ford on Sept. 16 "is going pretty well" but conceded there are major problems.

To save teeth: Stop brushing, start blotting

If you want to save your teeth, stop brushing and start "blotting," says a dentist who teaches the unusual method of dental

Dr. Joseph E. Phillips, 53, who has been using the process for 35 years, said he and his wife raised six children without one ever having a cavity.

Phillips agrees that the most important factor in dental health is to keep the mouth free of impurities, but contends that conventional brushing with toothpaste and the use of dental floss could do more harm than

He said brushing forces impurities such as plaque into the gums and often leads to gum disease. Blotting tends to prevent gum disease and eliminate bad breath, he said.

Phillips, who received peridontal training at Marquette University, said ordinary brushing simply rearranges impurities.

He said his technique involves using a small, child-size toothbrush where the teeth and gums meet. Instead of brushing, Phillips said the side of the brush should be gently moved against the teeth with blotting motions, drawing the impurities into the bristles. He said the process should be repeated on both sides of the teeth two or three times a day. "If an artist gets too much paint on his canvas, he cannot remove it by swishing his brush all around," Phillips said. "Rather, he daubs his brush into the excess paint and withdraws it.'

Dr. Saul Arbit of Milwaukee, chairman of the State Dentistry Examining Board, said Phillips' technique is essentially

It's time to get tough with state-supported universities who are making unsatisfactory progress toward eliminating sex discrimination in faculty hiring, says the head of a state women's commission. Rep. Susan Catania, R-Chicago, told newsmen she was not satisfied with the reports presented Tuesday in a 71/2 meeting with representaives of 13 major state universities.

She said she will suggest to the full membership of the Commission on the Status of Women that it take legal action to force universities to recruit females, hire them, pay them the same as men get for the same work and promote those who deserve it.

"We found that there was blatant sex discrimination in the hiring of faculty members in 1971. None of them (universities) have really done what one would expect in two years," Ms. Catania said.

"They know we're here and we're watching, but I don't think they are conscientiously doing anything about eliminating discrimination," she said.

She said she hopes the commission will ask the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare to cut off funds to schools until a significant affirmative action program is un-

Wooden cautions the Bruins' rivals

LOS ANGELES (AP) - All-Americans Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes are gone but Coach John Wooden of UCLA cautions that the Bruins' rivals 'shouldn't count us out too

Wooden, whose 27th season at UCLA opens Friday night against Athletes in Action at Pauley Pavilion, noted that other coaches, such as Southern Cal's Bob Boyd, are extremely optimistic about their chances to dethrone the Bruins as the Pacific-8 Conference basketball

"I know he's exuberant about it," Wooden said of Boyd's remarks. "I remember he felt the same way the year after we lost Kareem, too. We did all right in the two interim years after Kareem."

After Lew Alcindor, later known as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, left UCLA, the Bruins continued to win national championships with Steve Patterson at center. Then came Walton and Wilkes, who led the team to two more national crowns before losing to North Carolina State last spring.

"I think it's true that the Pac-8 is a very well-balanced conference," said Wooden. "Every coach figures his team is stronger, with the exception of UCLA. When you lose super players like Walton and Wilkes, there's no way you can be as

Ralph Drollinger, 7-feet-11/4 tall, moves into Walton's center spot and 6-9 sophomore Richard Washington opens at Wilkes' forward position. The No. 1 returning letterman is 6-71/2 senior forward Dave Mevers.

Andre McCarter, Pete Trgovich and Jimmy Spillane are the Bruin backcourt men of note with the graduation of Tommy Curtis and Greg Lee.

Marques Johnson, a 6-51/2 forward who started some games as a freshman last season, was stricken with hepatitis, which caused Wooden to move Washington to first-string forward and move up 6-111/2 freshman Brett Vroman to the No. 2 cen-

Of Johnson, Wooden said: "He's going to be back out for practice this week, but only on very limited basis. It will probably be a month before he can resume practice on a fulltime basis. I'm hopeful that by the conference season, in January, he will be back to give us some play."

KENOSHA, Wis. - John Blackburn, a 6'3'' senior defensive end from Carthage College, was named to the 1974 All-Conference squad for the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin on Wednesday. Blackburn, a graduate of Amboy High School, was one of four players from Carthage selected to the 23-man squad.

Joe Welty considered

MONMOUTH- Joe Welty, 185 Hawley, Amboy, has been announced by Monmouth College cross-country coach Jack Steger as one of eight athletes who will be considered by the college's Faculty Athletic Committee for letter awards for their participation in the harrier program. Welty, who graduated from Amboy High School, was captain of the 3-4 squad.

Radio coverage of playoffs

BLOOMINGTON- Approximately 20 radio stations throughout Illinois will join the Big I Radio Football Playoff Network for all and-or part of the broadcast of the five championship games of the first-ever Illinois High School Football Playoffs this weekend from Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University

Sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents of Illinois, the network will provide listeners with the color and action of the culmination of "November Nonsense" beginning Friday at 9:30 a.m. with the Class 1A title tilt between Flanagan (11-0) and Concord (Triopia) (11-0). The Class 2A game between Alexis (11-1) and Decatur (St. Teresa) (12-0) will be at noon. At 2:30, West Chicago (12-0) battles Mt. Carmel (11-1) for Class 3A honors. The network picks up the two games Saturday beginning at 11 a.m. with the Class 4A finale between Rockford (East) (12-0) and Normal (Community) (12-0). The downstate-suburban confrontation between East St Louis (Sr.) (12-0) and Northbrook (Glenbrook North) (11-0) will climax the two-day affair with the Class 5A title clash at 1:30 p.m.

Veteran sportscasters Art Kimball of Bloomington and Jim Turpin of Springfield will handle the play-by-play and color. Station WJBC, Bloomington, will be the network's flagship station.

Stations scheduled to participate on the network include: WOKZ, Alton; WWMM-FM, Arlington Hts.; WMRO, Aurora; WDAN-WMBJ, Danville; WLBK, DeKalb; WGEN, Geneseo; WLPO, La Salle-Peru; WSMI-WSMI-FM, Litchfield; WLBK, Mattoon; WVMC-WSAB, Mt. "Stillman Valley has a lot coming back although they lost their two real big boys. They should be small but very quick. Polo's sophomores won the underclassmen title two years ago even without (Mark) Brattrud, so they should be tough, also.

"Winnebago will have some real good juniors from last year back and they had an excellent sophomore team. Byron will surprise a lot of people, so you can hardly count anybody out.

"Some people think we should be right up there with them also," Stevens said, "but I think we should rate as a sleeper. We should come on strong at the end of the year, after our juniors get some experience.

"But our first game, with Stillman Valley, opens conference play for us while it will be their fifth game. That could really hurt us and it is very difficult to predict how we will finish in the conference.

"We definitely would have liked to have had a game before Stillman Valley, although, in

INVEST IN LAND

Invest in productive farm land. A basic commodity limited in supply. An excellent hedge against inflation. You or your group can purchase a productive 195 acre farm, 11/2 miles southwest of Mt. Morris with an initial investment of only $50,000. Yearly payments for a period of five years can be offset by entering into a lease-back agreement with the seller. Interest payments and depreciation will save you tax dollars and of course, you will be entitled to the likely appreciation in the value of the land.
